Review of the third quarter

Market development

Despite uncertainties in the global economy and lower activity levels in some parts of the market, total order intake for Atlas Copco's products and services remained roughly on the same high level as in recent quarters and higher than the previous year.

The service business continued to grow in all business areas while the demand for equipment was mixed. Order volumes for large compressors, industrial as well as gas and process, increased, supported by new product introductions and increased market penetration. Order volumes for vacuum equipment to the semiconductor and flat panel industry increased significantly, mainly driven by customers' investments in new production technologies. In contrast, the order intake from the motor vehicle industry continued to decrease.

The demand from other manufacturing industry also weakened, affecting a broad range of equipment like small and medium sized compressors, vacuum equipment to industrial and scientific customers and industrial tools.

Demand for power equipment such as portable compressors, generators and pumps decreased, primarily due to weaker market development in Europe.

The specialty rental business continued to achieve solid growth in the quarter with growth in all regions.

Motor vehicle industry

The demand for advanced industrial tools and assembly solutions from the motor vehicle industry decreased, both compared to the previous year and sequentially. Orders for equipment to new and improved fastening processes could not offset the generally weaker investment climate in the industry.

Geographically, and compared to the previous year, order volumes increased in North America but decreased in Asia and Europe.

General industry

The order intake for industrial power tools from the general industry decreased. While demand from customers in the electronics industry and energy sector increased, most customer segments noted a negative demand development.

Revenues and profitability

Revenues increased 10% to MSEK 4 783 (4 365), corresponding to an organic increase of 4%.

The operating profit increased 3% to MSEK 1 051 (1 018), with a margin of 22.0% (23.3). The margin was supported by currency, but negatively affected by sales mix, continuous adjustments to the lower demand and investments in digitalization initiatives. Return on capital employed (last 12 months) was 36% (39).

Equipment

The order intake for equipment did not meet last year's level as the demand for most types of equipment decreased. The negative order development was primarily driven by decreased demand for portable compressors and generators in Europe. Order volumes also decreased in North America but increased in Asia.

Sequentially and following a typical seasonal pattern, the order intake decreased for most types of equipment.

Specialty rental

The specialty rental business continued to develop favorably, with solid order growth compared to the previous quarter and sequentially.

Compared to the previous year, order volumes increased in all regions.

Service

The service business continued to grow in the quarter. Growth was achieved in all regions with the highest growth in Asia and North America.

Innovation

Six more models of stationary generators for industrial use were launched. The new generators are developed for quick installation and with high reliability in a compact design with up to 25% less floor space needed compared to alternative products. In addition, the generators can be integrated with the control system SCADA to support processes and device management.

Revenues and profitability

Revenues increased significantly to MSEK 3 697 (2 911), corresponding to an organic increase of 17%.

Operating profit increased 26% to MSEK 606 (480), with a margin of 16.4% (16.5%). The margin was supported by increased revenue volumes but diluted by acquisitions and extra costs related to supply chain and tariff changes.

Return on capital employed (last 12 months) was 29% (25%).

Accounting principles

The consolidated accounts of the Atlas Copco Group are prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). The description of the accounting principles and definitions applied in this report are found in the annual report 2018, with the complementary description of changes described below. The interim report is prepared in accordance with IAS 34 Interim Financial Reporting. Non-IFRS measures are also presented in the report since they are considered to be important supplemental measures of the company's performance. For further information about these measures and how they have been calculated, please visit: <http://www.atlascopcogroup.com/investor-relations>

New and amended accounting standards

IFRS 16 Leases

IFRS 16 Leases is effective from January 1, 2019 and replaces IAS 17 Leases and IFRIC 4 Determining whether an Arrangement contains a lease. Atlas Copco has chosen to perform the transition by use of the modified retrospective approach, which does not require restatement of comparative periods. The comparative information continues to be reported in accordance with IAS 17 Leases and IFRIC 4 Determining whether an Arrangement contains a lease.

On transition to IFRS 16, the Group recognized an additional MSEK 3 259 of right-of-use assets and MSEK 3 284 of lease liabilities. The difference between right-of-use assets and lease liabilities refers to prepaid or accrued expenses and financial lease receivables on agreements from subleasing.

Effect on balance sheet from adoption of IFRS 16, MSEK	Jan. 1, 2019
Rental equipment	2
Other property, plant and equipment	3 257
Financial assets	40
Other receivables	-18
Interest-bearing loans and borrowings, non-current	2 437
Interest-bearing loans and borrowings, current	847
Other liabilities	-3

Recognizing depreciation of right of use assets instead of minimum lease payments has had a small positive impact on operating profit. Interest on lease liabilities has had a small negative impact on net financial items.

Since the principal payments are recognized as financing activities, cash flow from financing activities has decreased with a corresponding increase in cash flow from operating activities. The interest portion of the lease payment remains as cash flow from operating activities and is included in net financial items paid.

Further details about transition effects as well as new accounting principles under IFRS 16 are presented in Atlas Copco's Annual Report for 2018.

Risks and factors of uncertainty

Market risks

The demand for Atlas Copco's equipment and services is affected by changes in the customers' investment and production levels. A general economic downturn, geopolitical tensions, changes in trade agreements, a widespread financial crisis and other macroeconomic disturbances may, directly or indirectly, affect the Group negatively both in terms of revenues and profitability. However, the Group's sales are well diversified with customers in many industries and countries around the world, which mitigates the risk.

Financial risks

Atlas Copco is subject to currency risks, interest rate risks, tax risks, and other financial risks. In line with the overall goals with respect to growth, return on capital, and protecting creditors, Atlas Copco has adopted a policy to control the financial risks to which the Group is exposed. A financial risk management committee meets regularly to manage and follow up financial risks, in line with the policy.

Production risks

Many components are sourced from sub-suppliers. The availability is dependent on the sub-suppliers and if they have interruptions or lack capacity, this may adversely affect production. To minimize these risks, Atlas Copco has established a global network of sub-suppliers, which means that in most cases there are more than one sub-supplier that can supply a certain component.

Atlas Copco is also directly and indirectly exposed to raw material prices. Cost increases for raw materials and components often coincide with strong end-customer demand and can partly be compensated for by increased sales prices.

Acquisitions

Atlas Copco has the ambition to grow all its business areas, primarily through organic growth, complemented by selected acquisitions. The integration of acquired businesses is a difficult process and it is not certain that every integration will be successful. Therefore, costs related to acquisitions can be higher and/or synergies can take longer to materialize than anticipated.

For further information, see the annual report 2018.

Forward-looking statements

Some statements in this report are forward-looking, and the actual outcome could be materially different. In addition to the factors explicitly discussed, other factors could have a material effect on the actual outcome. Such factors include, but are not limited to, general business conditions, fluctuations in exchange rates and interest rates, political developments, the impact of competing products and their pricing, product development, commercialization and technological difficulties, interruptions in supply, and major customer credit losses.

Atlas Copco AB

Atlas Copco AB and its subsidiaries are sometimes referred to as the Atlas Copco Group, the Group or Atlas Copco. Atlas Copco AB is also sometimes referred to as Atlas Copco. Any mentioning of the Board of Directors, the Board or the Directors refers to the Board of Directors of Atlas Copco AB.
